un capolavoro che esprime massima maestria viticola ed enologica applicativa. Viticoltura tale da rendere coloratissima e piena di tinta la sua livrea, che poi all'olfatto la sua polpa di mora la si sente pulsare subito linfatica e cristallina, mossa dall'ardor del suo omor che s'esprime con tanta rotondità gustativa. Una possanza di frutto che al palato rifulge del suo perfetto e armoniosissimo equilibrio di sapore: acidità, tannicità, uose suadenze, nesse in una sfera che non smette mai armoniosa di carezzare. Ed il suo estratto glorioso, pastoso, che non smette mai - cremoso - d'echeggiare la sua polpa stupenda. Un vino di eccellente nitidezza enologica e ossidativa, fra i migliori rossi in assoluto di Montalcino e d'Italia

BRUNELLO DI MONTALCINO RISERVA 2010

SCORE: 93/100

Molino di Sant'Antimo produced an impressive Brunello annata Paolvs in 2010, but this Riserva edition doesn't deliver the same level of clarity. The 2010 Brunello di Montalcino Riserva Paolvs takes a little time to get its aromatic cards in order once the bottle is open. Once it finds focus, the wine offers dark fruity aromas with plum, blackberry and dark currant. Beyond the fruity are more substantial aromas of spice and leather. The wine takes a while to rev up, but once it does it makes a lasting impression.

BRUNELLO DI MONTALCINO PAOLVS 2010

SCORE: 93+/100

The Brunello di Montalcino Paolvs is a tight and streamlined expression of Sangiovese with ethereal tones of spice, licorice, dried cherry, root beer, rosemary oil and crushed mineral. This vintage ultimately delivers much more complexity than the 2009 vintage that precedes it. In fact, this wine represents a big jump forward in quality. This wine will appeal to lovers of traditional Brunello, wines that offer more in terms of a vertical delivery instead of a horizontal, frontal approach. This is a wine you can really get into. Nice job.

BRUNELLO DI MONTALCINO PAOLVS 2013

SCORE: 93/100

The 2013 Brunello di Montalcino Paolvs is a hearty and robust Sangiovese with dark garnet tonality. The wine is redolent of dried cherry and blackberry with layers of smoke, tar and spicy tobacco. The fruit is slightly evolved. The wine shows elegance in the mouth with firm tannins and good structure. For a Brunello, you get decent value here. Some 30.000 bottles were made.

BRUNELLO DI MONTALCINO VARCO 2011

SCORE: 89/100

The 2011 Brunello di Montalcino Varco 84 is an elegant and subdued wine that holds back in intensity, but only initially. After a few moments it really starts to blossom and it shows delineated berry tones that are balanced against spice, leather and mineral. The Brunello presents a lightweight style with moderate persistence. But overall aromatic intensity is notable.

BRUNELLO DI MONTALCINO PAOLVS 2011

SCORE: 90/100

The 2011 Brunello di Montalcino Paolvs is a shapely and opulent wine from an aromatic point of view. The bouquet opens to dark cherry, blackberry, spice, leather and cola. Like many other wines from this vintage, the mouthfeel is lighter and less impactful overall. But it does exhibit the kind of integrated acidity that makes this wine perfect for pasta or meat dishes.

BRUNELLO DI MONTALCINO RISERVA 2012

SCORE: 91/100

Sporting a thick frame and a robust constitution, the 2012 Brunello di Montalcino Riserva Paolvs delivers ripe fruit tones with soft aromas of blackberry preserves and cherry liqueur. To my palate, the warm 2012 vintage, is better suited for near and medium-term drinking, and that's exactly what I suggest for this Brunello Riserva. Only 2.600 bottles were produced.
